

Anatomy of a Crime: Why are Women Criminals Different?

Prof. G.S. Bajpai gives detailed analytical inputs to Press Trust of India (PTI) on the subject.

On the request of Press Trust of India (PTI), Prof. G.S. Bajpai gave detailed analytical inputs regarding a criminological inquiry into the crimes of violence committed by women in India. This has a context of the recent killing of Raja Raghuvanshi in Meghalaya by his wife. This report delves deeper into the psychology of violence including the convergence of various criminological correlates driving women into such killings.

It is remarkable that the Times of India, The Week, Deccan Herald, The Hindustan Times, MSN and other newspapers / platforms have widely covered the comments made by Prof.

G.S. Bajpai in their respective issues. The links are as below:
